

Life FALKON Project

Fostering the breeding range expansion of Central-Eastern Mediterranean Lesser Kestrel Populations

LIFE FALKON Target species

The LIFE Falcon Project targets the Lesser Kestrel, a trans-trans-Saharan migratory raptor which mainly breeds in Mediterranean countries. This species suffered a dramatic population decline during the last century, due to changes in farming practices and climate change.

This postcard has been produced with the financial contribution of the European Union under the LIFE and Natura 2000 Programme and with the co-funding of the Fondazione Cariplo and the Green Fund. The contents of it are the sole responsibility of the consortium of LIFE FALKON and can under no circumstances be regarded as reflecting the position of the European Union or the Fondazione Cariplo and the Green Fund.

photo: Nikos Kouras

LIFE FALKON supports the Sustainable Development Goals

www.lifefalcon.eu

 @LifeFalcon

 @lifefalcon

info@lifefalcon.eu

Fondazione
CARIPLO

LIFE17 NAT/IT/000586

